I. BACKGROUND

Petitioners made a total of five requests under the California Public Records Act (“PRA”) (Gov. Code §§ 7920.000, et seq.) between December 2020 and July 2021:

1. San Jose Spotlight’s request dated December 12, 2020, seeking emails and text messages between the San Jose City Council and Mayor Liccardo’s Office and Bloom Energy during a three-month period. (Verified Writ Petition [“Petition”] ¶¶30, Ex. V, pp. 6-7.)
2. SJ Spotlight’s request dated April 17, 2021, seeking emails and text messages between various City officials regarding Bloom Energy. (Id. ¶¶31, Ex. Y, pp. 7-8.)
3. SJ Spotlight’s request dated June 24, 2021, seeking emails and text messages between Mayor Liccardo and his staff and Scott Largent from November 1, 2020, through June 24, 2021. (Id., ¶ 13, Ex. B, p. 5.)
4. First Amendment Coalition’s request dated July 26, 2021, for emails from Mayor Liccardo’s personal email account and communications with the Mayor from November 18, 2020, through July 26, 2021, that discussed City business. (Id. ¶24, Ex. L.)
5. SJ Spotlight’s request dated July 30, 2021, seeking public records on Mayor Liccardo’s personal gmail account from January 1, 2021, through July 30, 2021. (Id. ¶23.)

Notably, the two most recent requests seek all public records – without any limitation on subject matter or individuals involved – on Mayor Liccardo’s personal email account over an eight-month period. The City produced over 8,900 pages of responsive documents, including text messages. (Declaration of Jim Reed in Support of Opposition to Petition for Writ of Mandate and Declaratory Relief [“Reed Decl.”], ¶ 7, Ex. A.) While this action was pending, the City produced an additional 131 pages. In September 2022, the City provided a Log of Documents Withheld, which identified 327 documents withheld under PRA exemptions. Petitioners now seek to compel the production of those documents. On March 14, 2023, Respondents produced 36 of the documents sought by Petitioners. The balance of interests

1 no longer clearly weighs in favor of withholding these documents, given the passage of time
2 since Respondents' responses to Petitioners' PRA requests.

3 II. LAW AND ARGUMENT

4 A. PETITIONERS HAVE NOT ESTABLISHED A VIOLATION OF THE PUBLIC 5 RECORDS ACT

6 Petitioners claim violations of the PRA based on their allegations that the City and 7 Mayor Liccardo failed to conduct an adequate search for documents responsive to 8 Petitioners' requests and failed to produce responsive documents.

9 1. Petitioners Are Not Entitled to Documents that Do Not Relate to the 10 Public's Business

11 The PRA allows only for the disclosure of public records, which are defined as writings 12 "containing information relating to the conduct of the public's business." (Gov. Code § 13 7920.530(a).) Document number 29 is not a public record, as it relates only to a private 14 personal matter. (Reed Decl. ¶ 9.) To the extent the Court wishes to confirm that the 15 document does not relate to the public's business, Respondents request that the Court 16 conduct an in camera review. (Gov Code § 7923.105(a).) Document number 187 also does 17 not relate to the public's business, but has nevertheless been provided to Petitioners.

18 2. A Reasonable Search Was Conducted to Locate Responsive 19 Documents

20 A public agency is required to conduct a reasonable search to locate documents 21 responsive to a PRA request. (ACLU v. Superior Court (2011) 202 Cal.App.4th 55, 85.) An 22 agency need not "undertake extraordinarily extensive or intrusive searches, however." (City of 23 San Jose v. Superior Court ["City of San Jose"] (2017) 2 Cal.5th 608, 627, citing ACLU v.
24 Deukmejian (1982) 32 Cal.3d 440, 453.) The PRA does not set forth any specific requirement 25 or particular procedure with respect to a public entity's search for responsive documents.
26 When a PRA request seeks public records held in government employees' personal accounts, 27 the government agency is not required to undertake the search of those personal accounts.
28 Rather than require employees to surrender their personal electronic devices or account

1 passwords, “[t]he agency may . . . reasonably rely on these employees to search their own
2 personal files, accounts, and devices for responsive material.” (City of San Jose, supra, 2 3 Cal.5th at 628.)

4 This is exactly what the City did in this case. Under the City’s Public Records Policy
5 and Protocol: “Records include any recorded and retained documents or communications 6 regarding official City business sent or received by a City official or employee via personal 7 devices not owned by the City or connected to a City computer network.” (Smith Decl., Ex.
8 A [Public Records Policy and Protocol, 6.1.1, p. 1].) “All City officials and employees have 9 an obligation to make a reasonable effort to locate records responsive to a Public Records 10 Act request. This includes conducting search of work and personal accounts and devices.”
11 (Id., p. 5.)

12 Henry Smith served as the PRA coordinator for the Mayor’s Office and applied 13 Policy 6.1.1 when responding to PRA requests. (Declaration of Henry Smith in Support of 14 City’s Log of Withheld Documents [“Smith Decl.”], at ¶¶ 5-6.) Rhonda Hadnot, Chief 15 Operating Officer, checked the Mayor’s personal email for communications responsive to 16 the requests at issue in this case. (Smith Decl. ¶ 6, 8.) Mayor Liccardo checked his cell
17 phone for text messages. (Id.)

18 Accordingly, the evidence does not support Petitioners’ claims that Respondents 19 performed an inadequate search in response to their PRA requests. Petitioners should be 20 denied any relief with respect to those claims.

21 3. Documents Were Properly Withheld

22 a. Personnel

23 Documents related to personnel matters are exempt from disclosure. (Gov. Code. § 24 7920.210.) Document numbers 1, 52, 118, 173, 268, and 300 discuss personnel matters, 25 including the qualifications of candidates for City employment. As indicated by the City’s 26 Log of Documents Withheld, document numbers 1, 52, 118, and 173 are internal 27 communications about personnel matters, in particular, applicants for positions in the 28 Mayor’s Office. Document numbers 69-73 are documents related to personnel matters, in

1 particular, an applicant for City Manager. (Reed Decl. ¶ 10.) Document number 300 relates 2 to the appointment of the Police Chief. Although the subject line of the email suggests that 3 it is a post-decision “announcement” related to the appointment, the communication 4 reflects the mayor’s pre-appointment deliberations. (Id. ¶ 11.) Disclosure of these materials 5 would amount to an unwarranted invasion of the personal privacy of the candidates for 6 employment and appointment. Accordingly, they were properly withheld.

7 b. Closed Session

8 The Brown Act (Gov. Code §§ 54950, et seq.) generally requires public entities to 9 conduct the public’s business openly. However, it allows for a public entity’s legislative 10 body (e.g., the City Council) may meet privately in “closed sessions” under limited 11 circumstances. One such circumstance is to discuss salaries, compensation, and benefits 12 of the public entity’s employees. (Gov. Code § 54957.6.) As reflected in the City’s Log of 13 Documents Withheld, document numbers 99-104 relate to employee compensation 14 matters considered by the City Council in Closed Session. Document numbers 115-117 15 relate to employee benefits considered by the City Council in Closed Session. They also 16 contain medical information about certain employees, including their injuries and 17 treatment. (Gov. Code § 7920.210.) The disclosure of this information would cause an 18 undue invasion of these employees’ privacy. Because document numbers 99-104 and 19 115-117 reflect matters discussed in closed session, they were properly withheld in 20 response to Petitioners’ PRA requests.

21 c. Attorney-Client Communications

22 Records protected by the attorney-client privilege are exempt from disclosure under the 23 PRA. (Gov. Code § 7927.705 [PRA exempts from disclosure documents that are exempted 24 from disclosure pursuant to federal or state law, including provisions of the Evidence Code].) 25 Evidence Code sections 950, et seq., codify the attorney-client privilege. This privilege is 26 “absolute and disclosure may not be ordered, without regard to relevance, necessity or any 27 particular circumstances peculiar to the case.” (Costco Wholesale Corp. v. Superior Court 28 (2009) 47 Cal.4th 725, 732, citation omitted.) Document numbers 53, 61, 74, 76, 78, 82-83,

1 126-130, 135, 150-151, 169, 259, and 293 consist of privileged attorney-client
2 communications. (Reed Decl. ¶ 12; Declaration of Vera Todorov in Support of Respondents' 3 Opposition to Writ Petition ["Todorov Decl.,"] ¶ 3; see also Log of Documents Withheld.) These 4 communications are absolutely privileged.

5 Records containing attorney work product are also exempt from disclosure under the 6 PRA. (County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2012) 211 Cal.App.4th 57, 64.) "The attorney 7 work product doctrine absolutely protects writings that contain an 'attorney's impressions, 8 conclusions, opinions, or legal research or theories.'" (League of California Cities v. Superior
9 Court (2015) 241 Cal.App.4th 976, 992., citing Code Civ. Proc. § 2018.030(a).) Document 83
10 consists of attorney work product that was transmitted to Mayor Liccardo and his staff, 11 together with legal advice provided by Senior Deputy City Attorney. (Todorov Decl. ¶ 4.)

12 d. Pending Litigation

13 The PRA exempts from disclosure "records pertaining to pending litigation to which the 14 public agency is a party, until the pending litigation has been finally adjudicated or otherwise 15 settled." (Gov. Code § 7927.200(a).) When determining whether the exemption applies to a 16 particular document, courts consider the primary purpose of the document. (Fairley v.
17 Superior Court (1998) 66 Cal.App.4th 1414, 1421 ["The construction we give to 'pending 18 litigation' ... focuses on the purpose of the documents..."].) For example, billing records are 19 not considered subject to this exemption, as they are not created for use in litigation but for 20 normal recordkeeping purposes. (County of Los Angeles v. Superior Court (2012) 211 21 Cal.App.4th 57, 67 [billing records not subject to exemption because they were not created for 22 use in litigation but for normal record keeping purposes].) In particular, courts look for a 23 document that a public entity "reasonably has an interest in keeping to itself until the litigation 24 is finalized." (Fairley, supra, 66 Cal.App.4th at 1421-22.)

25 The purpose of the Section 7927.200 exemption is to protect a public entity's interests 26 during the course of litigation. For example, in Board of Trustees of California State University 27 v. Superior Court 2005) 132 Cal.App.4th 889, the Court of Appeal held that a media outlet 28 was not entitled to communications between the Board's attorneys and opposing counsel

1 because disclosure “would chill the parties' ability in many cases to settle the action before 2 trial. Such a result runs contrary to the strong public policy of this state favoring settlement of 3 actions.” (Id. at 899-900.) Thus, courts have held that the Section 7927.200 exemption applies 4 to documents that the parties to litigation did not intend to be revealed outside the litigation 5 and to documents that if produced during the course of litigation, “could hamper the parties’ 6 efforts to effectively represent their parties’ interests.” (Id.)

7 In the present case, document numbers 6-7, 13-16, 37, 44-45, 50-51, 56-57, 75, 122, 8 124, and 251 were withheld because they pertain to five lawsuits against the City, all of which 9 remain pending. The documents were created or produced in anticipation of, or as a result of, 10 those lawsuits. (Reed Decl. ¶¶ 13-18.) They were not intended to be disclosed outside of the 11 individuals to whom they were exchanged. (Id. ¶ 13.) Their disclosure would undermine the 12 City’s ability to defend itself in pending litigation or compromise the City’s position. (See, id.)
13 Accordingly, these documents were properly withheld under Section 7927.200.

14 e. Deliberative Process and Drafts

15 The PRA includes an explicit exemption for drafts, in particular, “preliminary drafts, 16 notes, or interagency or intra-agency memoranda that are not retained by the public agency in 17 the ordinary course of business, if the public interest in withholding those records clearly 18 outweighs the public interest in disclosure.” (Gov. Code § 7927.500.) “Predecisional” 19 documents are protected under this privilege, such as draft documents: “A draft is, by 20 definition, a preliminary version of a piece of writing subject to feedback and change.” (United 21 States Fish & Wildlife Service v. Sierra Club, Inc., supra, 141 S.Ct. at 786.)

22 Courts have also recognized that documents reflecting officials’ deliberative process 23 are properly withheld under the “public interest” exemption in Section 7922.000. (Times Mirror 24 Co. v. Superior Court (1991) 53 Cal.3d 1325, 1338.) The U.S. Supreme Court, California
25 Supreme Court, and other courts have discussed the significant practical public policy 26 reasons for exempting items protected by the deliberative process privilege from disclosure.
27 Courts recognize the reality that the development good public policy is promoted when ideas 28 and approaches – including bad ones – can be freely shared confidentially. They

1 consequently exempt documents protected by the deliberative process privilege from 2 disclosure.

3 In Times Mirror Co. v. Superior Court (1991) 63 Cal.3d 1325, the Court noted that 4 “protecting the predecisional deliberative process gives the chief executive ‘the freedom ‘to 5 think out loud,’ which enables him to test ideas and debate policy and personalities 6 uninhibited by the danger that his tentative but rejected thoughts will become subjects of 7 public discussion.” (Id. at 1341.) The California Supreme Court explained:

8 The key question in every case is “whether the disclosure of materials would 9 expose an agency’s decisionmaking process in such a way as to discourage 10 candid discussion within the agency and thereby undermine the agency’s 11 ability to perform its functions.” [citation] Even if the content of a document 12 is purely factual, it is nonetheless exempt from public scrutiny if it is “actually...related to the process by which policies are formulated” [citation] or “inextricably intertwined” with “policy-making processes.”

13 (Id. at 1342, citations omitted.) Indeed:

14 Disclosing the identity of persons with whom the Governor has met and 15 consulted is the functional equivalent of revealing the substance or direction 16 of the Governor’s judgment and mental processes; such information would 17 indicate which interests or individuals he deemed to be of significance with respect to critical issues of the moment. The intrusion into the deliberative process is patent.

18 (Id. at 1343.) It continued: “The deliberative process privilege is grounded in the 19 unromantic reality of politics; it rests on the understanding that if the public and the 20 Governor were entitled to precisely the same information, neither would likely receive it.”

21 (Id. at 1345.)

22 The U.S. Supreme Court recently affirmed that the deliberative process privilege 23 “shields from disclosure ‘documents reflecting advisory opinions, recommendations and 24 deliberations comprising part of a process by which governmental decisions and policies 25 are formulated.’”¹ (United States Fish & Wildlife Service v. Sierra Club, Inc. (2021) 141

27 ¹ Because the PRA is modeled on the federal Freedom of Information Act, “[f]ederal 28 statutes and cases implementing or interpreting the federal Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) are instructive because the California Act is modeled on the FOIA.” (Michaelis, Montanari & Johnson v. Superior Court (2006) 38 Cal.4th 1065, 1076.)

1 S.Ct. 777, 785.) It “is rooted in ‘the obvious realization that officials will not communicate 2 candidly among themselves if each remark is a potential item of discovery and front page 3 news.’” (Id.)

4 i. North San Jose

5 Document numbers 26, 298, and 303 reveal Mayor Liccardo’s thought process
6 about development in North San Jose, which has been the center of an ongoing dispute 7 with other agencies in the area, including the City of Santa Clara. (Reed Decl. ¶ 22.) After 8 years of disputes and negotiations, a settlement was recently reached in December 2022.
9 Disclosure of the mayor’s deliberative process during the negotiation of the settlement 10 would divulge the City’s position on the negotiated issues and undermine the settlement.
11 (Id.)

12 ii. Land Use Decisions

13 As noted by the Log of Documents Withheld, document numbers 59, 62-64, 80-81, 14 84-85, 142, 170, 276, 311-323, and 326 relate to the rezoning of the San Jose Flea Market 15 site, which was considered by the City Council at City Council meetings on June 22 and 16 June 29, 2021. Document numbers 146-147, 224, 228-229, 233-236, 239-240 are 17 correspondence and drafts that divulge the mayor’s deliberative process with respect to a 18 land use project that was pending Council approval at the time, namely the Downtown 19 West (Google) project. (Reed Decl. ¶¶ 23-25.) Prior to project approval, the City engaged 20 in significant public outreach and extended negotiations with stakeholders. Those efforts, 21 and the City’s decision to approve the project, would be undermined if the mayor’s 22 deliberative process was divulged. (See, id. ¶ 23.) Disclosure of these documents would 23 discourage an official from fully and candidly considering land use matters that are of 24 significant public concern.

25 iii. Budget

26 Document numbers 60, 79, 137-139, 154, 193, 194, and 212 are discussions and 27 drafts related to budget proposals, which were created prior to the adoption of the City’s 28 budget or fiscal year 2021-2022. The budget process requires significant negotiating and

1 compromising. Disclosing the mayor’s thought process relative to the budget setting 2 process would undermine the City Council’s ultimate decisions about funding and could 3 potentially result in discontent and second-guessing of the budget. The public interest in 4 withholding these documents clearly outweighs the public interest in their disclosure.

5 iv. Policy Considerations

6 Document numbers 65, 178-182, 279, and 280 consist of drafts and correspondence 7 that divulge the mayor’s thought process with respect to energy-related issues, in particular, 8 clean energy, climate change, and a potential microgrid policy. (Reed Decl. ¶¶ 26-27.) As 9 indicated on the City’s Log of Documents Withheld, document numbers 17, 36, 165-166, and 10 191-192 are drafts and documents that reveal the mayor’s honest and thorough consideration 11 of potential policies that the City might pursue to address homelessness. (See id. ¶¶ 20, 28.)
12 Document numbers 243-244 and 295-296 are draft letters related to an art display that was 13 removed. (Id. ¶ 29.) Document number 301 is a draft statement about policing that reveals 14 Mayor Liccardo’s consideration of public safety policies. (Id. ¶ 30.) Disclosure of documents 15 such as these would undermine public decisionmakers’ ability to vet ideas and consider 16 policies in a thoughtful and complete manner. It would confuse the public to disclose a draft 17 that may contain information that differs in any regard from what is ultimately made known to 18 the public. These documents were appropriately withheld.

19 v. Big City Mayors

20 Documents withheld from production include correspondence and draft documents 21 exchanged between Mayor Liccardo and mayors from the 13 largest cities in the state, who 22 comprise the California Big City Mayors Coalition (“BCM”). The coalition exists to enable 23 mayors from across the state to collaborate on policy decisions and matters of statewide 24 concern. (Reed Decl. ¶ 31.) They often collaborate, with the goal of reaching a consensus on 25 difficult and sensitive political issues. Integral to the BCM’s mission is the ability to exchange 26 views candidly and “think out loud.” (Id. ¶ 32.) The coalition’s purpose is to build consensus 27 and effectively and efficiently advocate as a group to effectuate policy that best serves the 28 people of the state. Document numbers 33-35, 46-49, 87-98, 155-156, 200-20, 219-220, and

1 294 divulge not only Mayor Liccardo’s deliberative process, but also those of other mayors.
2 Disclosure of these documents would undermine the very purpose of the BCM, which is to 3 form a consensus on issues of statewide concern and provide input to state and federal 4 legislators.

5 The same public interest analysis applies to the BCM’s draft work product. Notably, the 6 draft exemption applies with respect to “interagency or intra-agency memoranda.” (Gov.
7 Code § 7927.500, emphasis added.) Because of the public interest in collaboration among 8 elected officials throughout the state, the public interest in withholding the documents clearly 9 outweighs the interest in their disclosure.

10 B. THE COURT SHOULD DENY PETITIONERS INJUNCTIVE AND DECLARATORY
11 RELIEF

12 Petitioners ask the Court for the following declaratory and injunctive relief:

- 13 • A declaration that Respondents failed to conduct an adequate search and violated the 14 PRA and San Jose Municipal Code Chapter 12.21 (Petition, Prayer for Relief, ¶8);
- 15 • A declaration that records sought are public records as defined by the PRA (id., at ¶6);
- 16 • An order prohibiting the City from allowing employees to use only non-government 17 accounts (id., at ¶9);
- 18 • A declaration that if responsive records were deleted, Respondents violated the PRA 19 and Government Code section 34090 (id., at ¶ 10); and
- 20 • An order prohibiting Respondents from deleting records less than two years old (id., at 21 ¶10).

22 As described above, Petitioners are not entitled to relief with respect to their claims that 23 Respondents failed to conduct a reasonable search and violated the PRA. (See, supra, 24 II(A)(2).) Additionally, Petitioners have not made any argument related to Chapter 12.21 of the 25 San Jose Municipal Code, nor have they explained why they are entitled to any relief under 26 the Municipal Code. Petitioners should be denied the declaration and order they request in 27 their eighth prayer for relief.
28

1 1. Declaratory Relief is Not Available Because There is No Actual and 2 Present Controversy

3 In order for a cause of action for declaratory relief to lie, an actual and present 4 controversy must exist. (City of Cotati v. Cashman (2002) 29 Cal.4th 69, 79; Wilson & Wilson 5 v. City Council of Redwood City (2011) 191 Cal.App.4th 1559, 1582 [“To qualify for 6 declaratory relief, [a party] would have to demonstrate . . . an actual controversy involving 7 justiciable questions relating to [the party’s] rights or obligations. . .”].)

8 Petitioners’ sixth prayer for relief seeks a declaration that the records at issue are 9 public records. (Petition, Prayer for Relief, ¶ 6.) With the exception of document numbers 29 10 and 187, Respondents agree that the records at issue in this action are public records as 11 defined by the PRA. (See, supra, §II(A)(1).) There is no actual controversy with respect to 12 these documents.

13 Petitioners do not make any allegation or provide any evidence that any current City 14 employee has either improperly deleted public records or used exclusively non-City accounts 15 to conduct public business. They make allegations only about Mayor Liccardo, who is no 16 longer a City official. Thus, no actual controversy exists, and declaratory relief is not available.

17 2. Injunctive Relief and Declaratory Relief Cannot Redress Past Alleged 18 Misconduct

19 As a matter of law, injunctive relief is not available to address alleged past wrongs.
20 Courts will decline to impose an injunction where the party seeks relief for past conduct.
21 (Scripps Health v. Marin (1999) 72 Cal.App.4th 324, 332 [“. . . injunctive relief lies only to 22 prevent threatened injury and has no application to wrongs that have been completed.”].) For 23 example, in Cisneros v. U.D. Registry, Inc. (1995) 39 Cal.App.4th 548, a company (“UDR”) 24 had reported possible unlawful detainer actions. Plaintiffs sought an injunction preventing 25 UDR from reporting these possible actions (“possibles”). The trial court refused to grant 26 injunctive relief because UDR had discontinued its practice of reporting possibles. (Id. at 27 574.) The Court of Appeal affirmed. It explained: “A change in circumstances, rendering 28 injunctive relief moot or unnecessary, justified the denial of an injunction.” (Id., citation omitted.) It continued: “[a]n injunction should not be granted as punishment for past acts. . .

1 .” (Id., citation omitted.) Further, “[i]njunctive relief can be denied where the defendant
2 voluntarily discontinues the wrongful conduct.” (Id., citation omitted.)

3 Similarly, it is well established that declaratory relief is only available to address 4 current wrongs, or those that are threatened to occur in the immediate future, and not to 5 address past wrongs. In SJJC Aviation Services v. City of San Jose (2017) 12 Cal.App.5th
6 1043, the Court of Appeal affirmed the trial court ruling sustaining demurrer to a declaratory 7 relief cause of action. It did so on the ground that the plaintiff was “in reality complaining of 8 past acts” and declaratory relief is intended to work prospectively. (Id., at 1062.) (Accord 9 County of San Diego v. State (2008) 164 Cal.App.4th 580, 606 [“declaratory relief operates 10 prospectively to declare future rights, rather than to redress past wrongs”].)

11 Thus, both injunctive relief and declaratory relief are forward looking, and neither is 12 available to redress past wrongs. The only City official alleged to have potentially deleted 13 records in violation of Government Code section 34090(d) is Mayor Liccardo. And the only 14 City official alleged to have used a private account without copying a government account, is 15 Mayor Liccardo. But Mayor Liccardo’s term as mayor has lapsed and he is no longer a City 16 official or employee. There is no allegation, much less any evidence, that any current City 17 official has improperly deleted a public record.

18 Nor is there any allegation that any particular City official uses or will use a personal 19 account to conduct City business, or that such use has resulted in a violation of the PRA.
20 Indeed, Petitioners argue that the City’s current mayor and officials have committed to using 21 or copying a government account when communicating about public business. (Opening Brief, 22 at 19:1-7.) According to Petitioners, the court order they seek “would simply require San Jose 23 officials to do something they have committed to do.” (Opening Brief, at 19:6-7.) Thus, they 24 apparently concede that the conduct about which they complain is no longer taking place and 25 that there is no imminent threat of a future violation. Petitioners’ requests for declaratory and 26 injunctive relief aims to punish past conduct, rather than avoid any potential future harm. The 27 Court should deny Petitioners’ requests.

28 ///

1 3. Court Should Abstain from Setting City Policy

2 Petitioners ask the Court to prohibit the City from allowing its employees to use non-3 government accounts (Petition, Prayer for Relief, ¶ 9), or to compel the City to implement a 4 policy requiring its employees who use a private phone or account to copy their government 5 account when communicating about public business (Opening Brief, at 18:4-7). Courts abstain 6 from interfering in matters of local policy. It is well established that courts do not interfere to 7 require legislation. “The commanding of specific legislative action is beyond the power of the 8 courts for it would violate the principle of division of powers of the three governmental 9 departments.” (City Council of Santa Barbara v. Superior Court (1960) 179 Cal.App.3d 389, 10 394-95 [writ relief not available to compel city to raise garbage rates because determination of 11 rates was a legislative function, set by the city in a local ordinance].) Nor do courts interfere in 12 policy determinations that are best left to administrative bodies. (See, e.g., Shamisan v. Dept 13 of Conservation (2006) 136 Cal.App.4th 621, 642 [plaintiff who complained that defendants 14 failed to provide convenient and economical beverage container redemption opportunities, 15 was not entitled to equitable relief because relief sought “would interfere with the department’s 16 administration of [state law] and regulation of beverage container recycling...”].)

17 In City of San Jose, the California Supreme Court made it clear that any policies, like 18 the one Petitioners urge, would be determined and implemented by agencies. While the Court 19 considered federal policies requiring federal employees to use or copy their official accounts 20 when conducting public business, it expressly declined to impose any such requirement in 21 California. Instead, the Supreme Court left it to local agencies to determine appropriate 22 policies to “reduce the likelihood of public records being held in employees’ public accounts.”
23 (City of San Jose, supra, 2 Cal.5th at 628.) It acknowledged that “[a]gencies are in the best 24 position to implement policies that fulfill their obligations under public records laws yet also 25 preserve the privacy rights of their employees.” (Id., citing Nissen v. Pierce County (Wash.
26 2015) 357 P.3d 45, 58, internal quotations omitted.) As the Supreme Court demonstrated, 27 implementation of policies giving public employees direction with respect to public records is a 28

1 matter for their employers, not the judiciary, to determine. The Court here should likewise
2 decline to require the City to implement the policies requested by Petitioners.

3 4. Petitioners Have Not Established a Violation of Government Code
4 Section 34090

5 Petitioners request a finding that if Respondents have deleted records responsive to 6 their PRA requests, then they violated the PRA and Government Code section 34090(d).
7 Petitioners also request an order prohibiting Respondents from deleting records less than 8 two years old. (Petition, Prayer for Relief ¶ 10.)

9 As an initial matter, not all records need to be maintained for a two-year period.
10 There are statutory provisions that allow for a shorter retention period for certain records.
11 (See, e.g., Gov Code §§ 34090.6 [destruction of routine video recordings after 100 days].)

12 Further, it appears that Petitioners confuse the retention requirements of 13 Government Code 34090 with the disclosure requirements set forth in the PRA. There is 14 no statutory definition for the term “records” as it is used in Government Code section 15 34090 et seq. The Attorney General has opined that the definition of “records” under the 16 Government Code is “a thing which constitutes an objective lasting indication of a 17 writing, event or other information, which is in the custody of a public officer and is kept 18 either (1) because a law requires it to be kept; or (2) because it is necessary or convenient 19 to the discharge of the public officer’s duties and was made or retained for the purpose of 20 preserving its informational content for future reference.” (64 Ops.Cal.Atty.Gen. 317, 324 21 (1981), emphasis added.) Thus, “records” under the retention requirements of Section 22 34090 are limited to materials that either memorialize, with some degree of permanence, a 23 particular event or information. They do not include transitory communications or drafts 24 that neither assist a public official in the performance of their duties, nor preserve any 25 information for future reference.

26 “Public records” under the PRA are defined more broadly as “includ[ing] any writing 27 containing information relating to the conduct of the public’s business prepared, owned, 28 used, or retained by any state or local agency regardless of physical form or

1 characteristics.” (Gov. Code § 7920.530(a).) Thus, “public records” under the PRA 2 potentially include materials that are not a lasting memorialization of any information or 3 event. This could include fleeting thoughts that, in the past, would likely have been 4 exchanged during a live conversation, such as a meeting or phone conversation. It could 5 also capture drafts and working documents that are useful only until a final product is 6 completed.

7 While Petitioners suggest that Mayor Liccardo may have deleted text messages, 8 they provide no admissible evidence in support of that allegation. Even if the Court were to 9 consider the evidence offered by Petitioners, it is unclear whether any text message 10 consisted of the kind of lasting records subject to the retention requirements of Section 11 34090. Because Petitioners have not established that any violation of Section 34090 12 occurred, the relief they request is not proper.

13 Further, requiring the City to retain, for a two-year period, all “public records” would 14 be inconsistent with the law. Section 34090 sets forth retention requirements for “records,” 15 which are defined more narrowly than “public records” under the PRA. The PRA provides 16 no retention requirements for “public records.” Broadening Section 34090’s retention 17 requirements to capture not only an “objective lasting indication[s] of a writing, event or 18 other information” but also any writing “relating to the conduct of the public’s business” is 19 not supported by Section 34090 or by the PRA.

20 III. CONCLUSION

21 The City respectfully requests that the Court deny the Petition in its entirety.

22 Respectfully submitted,
